We All Know How This Ends

Lessons about life and living from working with death and dying

By Anna Lyons and Louise Winter

What would our society and culture look like ifwe embraced death and dying as part of life and living?

Would we teach children about all the facts of life, rather than just some of them?

These are just some of the questions that end-of-life doula Anna Lyons, and funeral director Louise Winter, ask in an attempt to end the deathly silence about death.

EIn We All Know How This Ends, the authors share a collection of the heart-breaking, surprising and uplifting stories of the ordinary and extraordinary lives they encounter every single day.

From working with the living, the dying, the dead and the grieving, Anna and Louise share the lessons they have learned about life, death, love and loss. And from their experience, they have suggestions of how the subject of death should be addressed differently, both on a personal level and a societal level. The changes they suggest are simple, but they could make a remarkable difference to the experiences of death, grief and beyond.

With practical information and professional expertise on everything that you might need to think about regarding death - from planning a funeral, looking into palliative care, dealing with grief or helping someone else grieve, discussing death with children, to reframing your own thoughts on death - We All Know How This Ends is an invaluable resource to fall back on in a time of need.

This book might be about death, but it is colourful, vibrant and full of life.

Rapid CoV-2 Antigen Testing
Protecting your team

Many funeral staff are coming into proximity with vulnerable people. An infection in the workplace will cause downtime and delays in funerals at this most difficult time. It is recommended staff are tested twice a week to ensure cross infection is minimised.

Cost effective test kits are now available which deliver results within 2-15 minutes with a 99% sensitivity for moderately infected individuals.

These are:

- CE & UK Compliant, MHRA Approved, Outperforms other CoV-2 test kits for accuracy and speed
- Developed by Professor Sir Chris Evans OBE and his UK based Excalibur health team
- Accuracy - 100 sensitivity with heavy infectious individuals and 99% sensitivity for moderately infectious individuals means almost no cases will be missed. 100 specificity means no misdiagnosed 'false positives' (Extensively tested by organisations such as Imperial college London and Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine – over 13,500 samples)
- Results observed within 2-15 minutes
- Accreditation from the likes of BSI (British Standards Institute), ISO (International Organisation for Standardization) and TUV (Germany's Technical Inspection Association)
