LOVE WILL NEVER DIE
BY CLARE SHAW

*“Everyone is different.
There is no right way to feel.
Sometimes I’m happy, sometimes sad,
We all need time to heal.”*

Author Clare Shaw's first book, Sometimes, was written for children whose parents may work away for long periods of time, borne from her own family experience after her husband's six month deployment overseas.

Following the success of Sometimes, Clare began to write notes about how children deal with loss and bereavement, resulting in her latest book Love Will Never Die.

Love Will Never Die is an interactive book, providing children with the emotional tools they need to cope with the bereavement process and to help manage their grief.

Clare has used direct but child-friendly language and addresses the mixed emotions felt after death. The book offers support and understanding, alongside pages for the child to express themselves freely, for example by drawing pictures of how they are feeling.

Funeral directors can purchase Love Will Never Die at the reduced rate of £7.50 by emailing clareshaw.childrensbooks@gmail.com or visiting www.cskidsbooks.com for more information.
